European Athletics President's Welcome Message

I am very pleased to welcome everyone to the European Athletics U20 Championships here in Borås.

This competition returns to Sweden after a gap of just four years, with Eskilstuna having been the host in 2015, and I think this fact alone shows what a big contribution Sweden makes to European Athletics.

I have fond memories of that championship as it was one of the first European Athletics competitions on the calendar after I became President a few months earlier. It was an outstanding event, both on the track and off it, and I feel confident that it will be the same here.

Some of the medallists from four years ago have already proven themselves at the highest level.

Belarus' Elvira Herman won the 100m hurdles in Eskilstuna and repeated that feat when taking the European Athletics Championships gold medal in the same event last summer in Berlin. My Norwegian compatriot Karsten Warholm won two silvers in the 400m and decathlon at this championship before his stunningly successful switch to the 400m hurdles, and most of you know the rest of the story.

In addition, a number of other medallists from Eskilstuna also climbed the podium in Berlin so you can see that as well as providing outstanding competition in their own right the European Athletics U20 Championships are also a glance into the crystal ball and identify many of the future stars of our sport.

Some of the athletes who will be competing here in Borås have already made an impact in this age-group. No less than 11 European athletes who won medals at the IAAF World U20 Championships Tampere 2018 are still eligible to compete in this age group.

If I can be patriotic for a moment, I was particularly thrilled when I heard Jakob Ingebrigtsen say, just after he won his third European U20 cross country title in the Netherlands last December, that these championships were one of his main targets for this summer. After so many accolades already as a teenager, competing here will be a fitting finale to this outstanding athlete's U20 career on the track.

European Athletics are very grateful to the Svenska Friidrottsförbundet – the Swedish athletics federation – the town of Borås as well as all the officials and volunteers with the Local Organising Committee for all their hard work and commitment to staging this event.

President, European Athletics

LOC President's Welcome Message

I am pleased and proud to welcome all guests of the European Athletics U20 Championships 2019 to Borås and Ryavallen Athletics Stadium. With athletes from about 50 nations, from all over Europe, I'm convinced that it'll be a spectacular event to remember for a long time. Simply colourful moments together, as the event's tagline reminds us.

When I think back on my own athletics career, I can almost feel the nervousness, the excitement, the hopes of expectations and the joy that the contestants must feel right now.

Personally, like many other Swedish athletes, I have special memories of Ryavallen. I have set two Swedish records on these tracks. I hope that many of our young athletes will experience the same feeling and that they can meet their personal goals regardless of whether it is a personal best, a national record or even a European record. Most important of all, and I quote from the event's ambassador Emma Green (with medals from both European- and World Championships), that every athlete "performs with joy" during this summer's championship.

Now, to get the opportunity to welcome tomorrow's athletic stars, their accompanying and the audience welcome to a modern athletics arena in Borås, feels fantastic.

See you all in Borås.
